THE PRESIDENT.

His Condition Shows a Decided Improvement.

Pulse and Temperature Lower--Appetite Better.

Three of the Attending Surgeons Discharged.

The Morning Dispatches.

RESTLESS AT NIGHT BUT BETTER YESTERDAY.

LONG BRANCH, September 8.—Although the president was wakeful and restless during the early part of the night his condition this morning is quite satisfactory. After the morning dressing Dr. Bliss said the patient was doing well. He slept very well after twelve o'clock. He shows much improvement to-day and is better than he has been for eight or ten days. Dr. Reyburn considered the president's condition this morning as better than yesterday. This unusual restlessness in the early part of the night is attributed to the intense heat of yesterday. To-day it is not quite so close. Cooler weather is anxiously looked for and it is thought it will make a favorable change for the president.

There is much comment on the retirement of three of the attending surgeons, and some persons are inclined to believe the matter is extraordinary and surrounded by mystery. Information obtained from the authoritative source, however, does not warrant any such opinion. Mrs. Doctor Edson, one of the nurses, also retires from her duties in that capacity, and she and Dr. Woodward expect to leave Long Branch to-day. This move is explained by those in a position to know, by the statement that the president recently informed his wife that he would prefer having all male attendants henceforth.

THE PRESIDENT'S APPETITE

is much better. When given some chicken he remarked that he felt as if he could eat it all. This is one of the most desirable indications. If the patient's appetite returns the attending surgeons will be more sanguine.

Dr. Hamilton, while declining to talk for publication, indicated by his remarks that he felt very much encouraged with the case as it stood at present.

The Afternoon Dispatches.

HIS CONDITION AT 12.30.

LONG BRANCH, September 8, 12:30 p. m.—Doctor Bliss, who has just made an examination of the president's pulse, says that at this hour it is 94, temperature normal, respiration 17. "This," said the doctor, "is the best showing we have had in the case at noon for some days." The announcement of the figures was read with great satisfaction by all. Attorney General MacVeagh expressed the opinion that there is now apparently good grounds for encouragement.

There appears good ground for the belief that the rally will be maintained as

THE WIND HAS SHIFTED.

Services of prayer for the recovery of the president were held to-day in nearly all the churches here. At this hour a general good feeling prevails, and if the favorable change in the patient continues through the day there will be good reason to believe that he really is started on the road to recovery. Dr. Bliss says the wound and gland are both in excellent condition, and there are at present no unfavorable symptoms. Mrs. Garfield is extremely happy over the sudden change for the better.

DAY OF PRAYER IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, September 8.—A day of prayer is being generally observed by union prayer meetings in many churches of the city, by the suspension of the public schools, closing of the public and many private places of business. Telegrams from the interior of the state indicate a general observance of the day as recommended by the governor.

THOUGHT TO BE CONVALESCENT.

ELBERON, N. J., September 8.—The favorable condition of the president at the noon examination continues and has had the effect of cheering all hearts. The feeling in all quarters is changed from anxiety to most sanguine opinion that the president has at last fairly started on the road to recovery. Dr. Bliss is authority for the statement that the president is convalescent. He made this assertion in the presence of Dr. Hamilton. The latter gentleman, who strictly adheres to his policy not to talk for publication about any of his patients, showed by his expression that he did not object to the statement.

IN CASE OF DEATH.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 8. Senator Beck believes that should Garfield die Anthony would be elected president pro tem. of the senate and says the democrats would in no way attempt to take unfair advantage of their temporary power over the senate.

PRAYERS IN LONDON.

LONDON, September 8.—At a meeting of the Wesleyan Ecumenical conference this morning, on motion of Rev. McCauley, it was resolved that there should be a devotional exercise to show the sympathy of the conference with the people of America who are to-day offering up a prayer for the restoration to health of President Garfield. Wm. S. Allen, member of parliament, accordingly offered a prayer and an appropriate hymn was afterwards sung. Several American delegates expressed their sense of kindness of the conference.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

ELBERON, N. J., 6:30 p. m. At 12 m. today the president's temperature was 98.4, pulse 94, respiration 17. At the evening dressing the temperature was 99.1, pulse 100, respiration 18.—He has taken a liberal amount of food, solid and fluid, with apparent relish.

By special request of the president it has been our duty to say in this public manner to Surgeon General J. K. Barnes, Surgeon J. J. Woodward, and Dr. Robert Reyburn that in dispensing with their services as his medical attendants he was actuated only by his wish to relieve them of the labor and responsibility which in his improved condition he could no longer properly impose on them. Both the president and Mrs. Garfield desire to impress to these gentlemen personally in the same public manner their high appreciation of their great skill and the discretion which they have so constantly exercised as associated council in the management of the case up to the present time.

[Signed] D. W. BLISS,
F. H. HAMILTON.

THE STORY OF THE REMOVAL.

LONG BRANCH, September 8.—The official statement that the withdrawal of Drs. Reyburn, Woodward and Barnes from the attendance on Garfield is the result of the whim of a very sick man does not tell the story. It is known that from the first day after the president recovered from the great shock of the shooting he was averse to having so many physicians in attendance upon him. He characterized them with others in attendance as a "mob" and wished that the mob would leave the room. As the case proceeded and the president grew weaker he to his confidential nurses and to his family complained of the presence of some of these gentlemen. Once he asked upon seeing one of them, "Is he here yet?" A day or two before his departure from Washington, the president, in talking with Mrs. Garfield while making arrangements for the trip, mentioned the surgeons he wished to go with him and said Bliss, Agnew and Hamilton would be sufficient and he didn't care to have the others go. This was soon communicated to the surgeons interested and created some consternation, as, of course, they feared their dismissal would be regarded as a reflection upon their professional reputation.

The truth is that with the exception of Reyburn, whose retirement will be regretted, the surgeons dismissed have had very little responsibility in the case. Woodward is known throughout the world as a microscopist and in that capacity has been of much service, but the microscopist had a vote in the removal, and that vote was persistently cast against removal.

The public will not be deprived of information as to the progress of the case because of their retirement. Reyburn was always genial and communicative, but the two military gentlemen, in a spirit too prevalent in the army, seemed to consider that the public had little interest in the case, and treated the press almost with rudeness.

Mrs. Dr. Edson also retires from the case this morning. This nurse has been very devoted and skillful in her attendance, and goes with the good wishes of all. She has felt at times that medical treatment more in accord with homeopathic theories would be preferable, but has never intruded with her views. She objected particularly to the free use of alcoholic stimulants, which the physicians regarded as necessary. She greatly needs rest, as no one has been more faithful in attendance than she. One of those having charge of the case, speaking of her retirement, says she greatly needs rest. She is broken down from fatigue and faithful service, and is too old to try to do more now and is getting nervous.

The withdrawal of so many attendants of the president in his long sickness gives rise to much speculation and gossip. It will not be just to the surgeons to say that the break up is due to any professional differences or bad feeling. Those remaining are sufficient to give the president the attendance that he requires, and it is desirable that no superfluous associates should be retained.

Leadville Items.

LEADVILLE, September 8.—The Evening Chronicle gives the output of the camp for August at $1,093,657, an increase of 620 tons over July.

John Schaefer, Frank Cressler and H. Tankerman were arrested to-day for stealing silver from the stamp mill of Taylor & Brunton. The two first worked at the mill and secreted the silver-in-tobacco pouches and dinner buckets which at night were taken to a secluded spot in Tennessee park, put through a retort by Tankerman and afterwards marketed at Hill's works and elsewhere. Other arrests for similar practices will be made.

An attempt yesterday was made to abduct a six year old daughter of S. A. Earhart. The villains escaped.

Attempt to Ignite a Magazine.

DUBLIN, September 8.—An attempt was made to blow up a magazine in the infantry barracks at Castle Bar. A canister of gunpowder was thrown over the wall but the lighted fuse dropped off.

A Disastrous Explosion.

BRADFORD, Pa., September 8.—A nitro glycerine explosion on the schooner Will Sawyer of this city, this morning, resulted in the death of William Burton, Charles Cruse, Joseph Thrasher Sawyer and Charles Rust, of Bradford. Fred. Satterly, aged twelve, will die from the effects of the explosion. Several others were injured and mangled. Eighteen quarts of glycerine exploded.

RAILROAD ROBBERY.

A Train on the Chicago and and Alton Road

Stopped by Armed Men and Passengers Robbed.

ST. LOUIS, September 8.—There was a daring robbery on the Chicago and Alton road near Independence this evening at 8:45.

ST. LOUIS, September 8.—In regard to the train robbery the following particulars are given: The train was a west bound express and had one hundred passengers all of whom lost something and many quite heavily. Frank Lombard, the news agent, says: "I was in the smoking-car talking with Conductor Jack Hasselbacker. We were on an up grade four miles from Independence and all of a sudden the train came to a stop. We heard loud cries and pistol shots and saw lanterns flashing. We knew the train robbers were there. Hasselbacker ran back into the train and warned the passengers who were all looking out of the windows until the robbers ordered them to pull in their heads and keep quiet. The robbers had an obstruction. I am sure there were a dozen of them, although some of the passengers place the number at sixteen. Everybody was panic-stricken and helpless. I ran out of the car and found men murdering the engineer and fireman, who were poorly armed. The robbers all had Henry rifles. They were swearing loudly and shooting at random, and some shots passed into the mail car but did not touch anything. Express Messenger Fox had in the meantime barred the express car. They climbed up on it and ran around and began to shoot. They broke in the car and knocked him down by a violent blow on the head, and then robbed the safe of everything. I ran back into the smoking car and hid some money, but the robbers came in and ordered me to lie down. They then pointed a revolver at me and ordered me to "fork over." I said my money was under the cushion. They told me to get it, and I got it in a hurry, you can bet. They went back to the other cars and made a wholesale robbery of money, watches and jewelry. Some of the passengers saved their money, but the majority lost all. The ladies were compelled to sit on the floor, and some had car-rings taken from their ears and many lost their jewelry. One man lost $450. In the meantime the freight train was coming up behind us and Burton, a brakeman, ran down the track with a storm of bullets behind him. He stopped the train and probably saved many lives. After the cars were gone through the robbers jumped off and struck for the timber where their horses were. The men in front helped the train men roll off the obstruction and then joined their companions. I should say we stood still half an hour.

Frank Burton said, "I was standing on the front platform of the sleeper when the train stopped and I heard voices and oaths on the back platform. I said, "We are going to be robbed." Then one of the robbers cried out, "We are coming in and going through you all." I remembered the freight train was just behind me and I heard it coming up. I jumped off and ran with my lantern down the track, they commenced shooting at me and the bullets whistled all round me and struck the rails and stones. They must have fired twenty-five shots.

The engineer said: "For God's sake don't shoot the boy. He is saving the lives of these people. Then one of them threw up one of his arms and said, "Stop shooting." I rolled into a cut and waved my lantern and the train was stopped a car length off. When I came back a robber said, "Have you lost anything?" I answered, 50 cents. He gave me $1.50 for interest. Then I heard one of the robbers say to the engineer, "Chally Foote you're too good a man to keep up this business, here's two dollars to buy a drink in the morning, and drink it for Jesse James. I warn you you will be killed if you don't leave this road. We are going to tear up and burst the Rock Island & Alton roads for they've been offering rewards for us. We have no grudge against the Pullmans and will switch off their cars and burn all the rest. I am the man who killed Westlake at Winston. He was too stuart and drew a revolver."

Burton did not think he was Jesse James or any of his gang. They all acted green at the business and he thought they were men living in the vicinity. They all seemed quite young and made no attempt to disguise their voices. The passengers' story is substantially as above.

Express Messenger Fox, who refused to give up his keys to the train robbers at Glendale was terribly beaten and cannot live. Several thousand dollars were taken from the passengers and from five to $20,000 from the car. The whole affair was over in fifteen minutes. The train men made a show of resistance, but being unarmed could do nothing. The place was right in a dense wood two miles from any house. Chief of Police Speers started from Kansas City at once with fifty men on horseback. A special train with a posse under Marshal Murphy, also went immediately to the scene of the robbery, and large bodies of men are being sent out from all points in every direction. The whole country is aroused and intense excitement prevails. The leader of the party answers the description of the leader of a party that robbed the Chicago & Rock Island train at Winston, July 17th.

The Post Dispatch from Kansas City has the story of L. Foote, the engineer of the robbed train, three or four miles from Independence. Just before the crossing of the Missouri Pacific track he saw a five foot pile of stone with a red rag on it, and behind the pile stood the leader of the robbers, who, when the train was stopped, said: "Step down out that engine and do as I tell you or I will kill you." With a revolver pointed at his head the robber made him get a coal pick and break down the door of the express car. Messenger Fox had hid in the woods, but they threatened if he didn't appear to kill him, so I called on him to come out, which he did, and they forced him to open the safe. They were chagrined at not getting more booty and jumping on Fox beat him with their revolvers fearfully. They then marched us to the coaches and covered us with revolvers while they robbed the passengers. They went through every car and then marched us back to the engine. The leader said, "Now get back there. We will remove the stones. You have been a bully boy. Here's a little present for you," handing me two silver dollars. They stepped over an embankment and were out of sight in a twinkling. What was taken from the passengers was put in two satchels which were nearly full of watches and other valuables.

It is stated that the chief of police has arrested six of the robbers.

THE FIRST CAST.

The Steel Works at Pueblo Now in Operation---First Cast of Twelve Tons Made on Wednesday.

The Colorado people have watched with interest for the past year the construction of the steel works at Pueblo. These works are now in operation, and yesterday's Chieftain has the following account of their first day's work: "On Tuesday evening last the horizon in the vicinity of Taylorville was lit up with a ruddy glare; tongues of flame leaped upwards from the tall massive chimneys, a dense volume of smoke rolled and tumbled before the winds, bright lights flashed here and there, and it soon became evident that the steel works, the most important manufacturing industry ever known to Colorado, or the entire region of country west of the Missouri river, were started at last and in active operation. The sight at night was a grand one, and was witnessed by a large number of citizens from both sides of the river. It was the initial performance of an enterprise, the progress of which has been watched with interest for months past, which combines more capital, more skill and is pregnant with more results for the future growth of our city and the development of southern Colorado than all other industries combined, and as the first blast was fired and a successful run accomplished, it seemed that the problem was solved, and all doubts and fears chased away to make room for the glad reality. There is not a man or woman in Pueblo who has the interest of our city at heart, who is interested in her growth and the signs of her material prosperity, but will rejoice at the successful inauguration of the steel works. It means the resurrection of our crude iron ores, the assimilation of many other important industries that have only been waiting for one general head, the manufacture of railroad rails of iron and steel, and the permanent relief of western consumers from the irksome monopoly so long enjoyed by the iron workers of the east. Whether we consider the capital invested, the labor expended or the object to be accomplished, the importance is one that can hardly be overestimated and worthy the earnest thought of every citizen.

Yesterday at twelve o'clock the first cast, twelve tons, was made, and the first pig iron ever manufactured in Pueblo was turned out to the gaze of a large crowd of spectators, all of whom evinced the greatest interest in the success of the works. The machinery worked to perfection, and everybody connected with the works, as well as a large number of citizens in attendance, expressed the greatest pleasure at the successful inauguration of the greatest manufacturing industry ever started in Colorado. Hundreds of citizens in attendance gathered specimens of the ore or iron to take home with them as souvenirs of the important occasion. Work on the company's rolling mill progresses rapidly, and it is expected to have it in successful operation in a few weeks. The people of Taylorville are jubilant, and the business of the village merchants is good, new improvements are on the increase, and everything and everybody about the place wears a look of prosperity and happiness.

DEATH IN DENVER.

A Young Lawyer Found Dead in His Bed.

DENVER, September 8.—Phil S. Armitage, a young lawyer who arrived in this city from Louisiana about a month ago, was found dead in bed this morning. A sponge saturated with laudanum, which caused his death, was found near his face. He was in bed two days before discovery.

The forces of the Rio Grande and the South Park roads are still kept on Wiwatta street, the scene of the controversy, but nothing exciting has happened to-day.

Fire in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., September 8.—Humphy & Co.'s planing mill was damaged to the amount of $40,000. Insurance $12,000.

UNLAWFUL HEALERS.

Several Colorado Springs Physicians Arrested for not Complying With the State Statute.

Determination of the County Medical Board to Enforce the Law.

At the last session of the Colorado legislature an act was passed to protect the public health and regulate the practice of medicine. In order to comply with the statute it was made necessary for every person practicing medicine to possess qualification, diploma, etc., as well as a license from the state board of medical examiners. Every doctor holding such license was required to have the same recorded in the county clerk's office of the county in which he was practicing.

At the last meeting of the El Paso County Medical association the question was brought up for consideration, and several members reported that to their knowledge several doctors were practicing medicine, both in this city and in the county outside, without having complied with the conditions of the statute made and provided for such practice. Dr. E. C. Kimball, our city physician, took the matter in hand yesterday in behalf of the county association and had warrants issued for the arrest of Doctors Smith, Benbow and Beecher, all of whom were administering to the sick without proper authority to do so.

Six other warrants were issued against physicians living out of the city, but these have not yet been served. The three defendants above spoken of were arraigned before Justice Bentley at 2 p. m. yesterday for a hearing. Dr. Smith, the first one called up, plead not guilty to the charge, claiming that he was not a regular practitioner, but merely a magnetic healer. He had never studied medicine, neither had he rendered medical services, except by magnetic treatment. When asked how he came to apply the title doctor to his name, he replied that when he lived in Minnesota there were several men living in the same town with him of the same name and initials. In order to distinguish himself from the others he attached the title of Dr. to his name. The judge came to the conclusion that the meaning of the statute passed was to cover just such cases as his, and fined him $50 and costs. Dr. Benbow when called upon showed the requisite diploma, also a certificate from the State medical board of Iowa. He said that he had failed to secure his certificate from the examiners at their last meeting, but had intended to make application for it at the October meeting of the board. It was evident that his intentions were good and the judge continued his case until after the meeting of the board. Dr. Beecher failed to put in his appearance and it is presumed that he left the city immediately after the process had been served upon him. Dr. Smith's case was subsequently reconsidered and the judge concluded to remit the fine of $50 upon the payment of the costs, amounting to $7.10, providing that he (Smith) should immediately discontinue the practice of medicine and leave the state. The other six warrants will be served at once.

The object of this law is to protect the people from the quack doctors who are continually traveling from state to state with "cure or no pay" as their motto. In nine cases out of ten these physicians have never studied medicine at all, and are no more qualified to administer medicine to the sick than a twelve-year-old child. The statute now in existence is not very full or precise in its specifications, and it is not unlikely that its incompleteness will eventually cause some litigation in the higher courts.

It is the determination of the various county medical boards in the state to see that the law is enforced. In Denver and Leadville numerous charges have already been brought and sustained. It is to be hoped that the law will fulfill the mission for which it was adopted, that of ridding the people from the many quacks that infest the country.

MICHIGAN'S MISFORTUNE.

The Destructive Forest Fires, Homes Swept Away and Many Lives Lost.

DETROIT, September 8.—The situation in Huron City, on the shores of Lake Huron, is deepening every hour. An appeal was issued last night at Port Huron, signed by Senator Conger and Hon. W. L. Bancroft, calling for money, clothing and provisions to be sent forthwith to Hon. E. C. Carleton, mayor of Port Huron. The distress is unparalleled. It is believed that three hundred people have perished. It is feared that many more are lost, while thousands are stripped of everything. Food, shelter, crops, stock, all are swept clear from the face of the earth, and needs must have lost everything necessary to sustain life and clothe themselves. Accounts continue to come in of the most harrowing description.

A special to the Post and Tribune says that George McDonald, of Minden, Sanilac county, tells a harrowing tale. Over two hundred families are homeless in that section and are suffering from the want of food and clothing. John Ballentine, of Verona mills, says that fifty-three lives are known to be lost in the neighborhood of Sand Beach. The fire suddenly reached Verona mills on Monday, and the town was soon wiped out. The wind was so strong that he and his wife were picked up and blown fifteen to twenty yards. A woman and husband were found lying against a tree dead, the woman being partly delivered of a child. The devastation caused by the fires of 1871 are nothing compared to the fires of the last few days.

REPORTS FROM OTHER COUNTIES.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., September 8. Reports show that in Mittinghen township, Tuscola county, twenty-one families are left homeless and houseless. In Denmark, Guilford and Tusala townships, the same county, twenty or thirty families are burned out. Acres of timber and crops and miles of fence are burned. In this vicinity the fires are chiefly confined to Burnt Vista, Bramfield, Bridgeport and Beech-Run townships on the east, and Rockville, Fellwankee and Saginaw townships on the west, in all of which a number of buildings and large quantities of property have been swept away.

An Indian settlement, several miles below this city, and surrounded by a dense forest, is reported to be burned, and doubtless a number of lives lost. There were thirty families there, and they had no way of escape. Heavy fires are also reported in Isabella county, doing a great deal of damage.

In the vicinity of Richmondville and Wesson Forester and Marion townships reliable information leads me to say that upward of three hundred people perished in the flames. There was no escape for them, the woods and the ground were so dry. No warning of danger was given. Faster than a race horse came the fire. Persons who have been through the terrible ordeal say that in ten minutes from the time the fire struck there would be no vestiges of a house left. I have just returned from a trip through the burned district, and a description of the sight would make the readers' blood turn cold. There were many instances of men, women and children found lying on their faces in the road where they had fallen when overtaken by the fire. Children were lying on logs where they had climbed for safety, and not finding each other when once separated. Many took refuge in wells and out-houses, thinking to escape, but in almost every instance were suffocated.

The details of the suffering in Huron is as bad as here. I believe that when the returns are in one thousand persons will be found to have perished. Forester township will turn out Thursday to bury the dead cattle, horses and sheep, the stench from which is unbearable.

Rev. Allington found sixteen dead bodies near Dickerville and five buildings left between that place and Minden. John Fitzwager's family of seven children and wife were all burned together. The Day family was burned with Morris Clifford's wife and child. A man and woman were lying dead in the road between Donners' mill and Tyne. Fifteen families are burned in Moore and Arigyles, and five hundred families are reported at Minden as having been burned out. A woman was burned at Smith's mill, half a mile from Tyne. In some places as many as six families are in log shanty. They must have relief from below or great suffering will result. I saw families to-day who hadn't had one meal since Monday and I don't know when they will get one. Their teams are all gone, cows and other stock burned and desolation stares them in the face. They talk about their misfortune, and many say bad as it was it might have been a great deal worse. They are glad to get away with their lives. Many men are Canadians who had been over but a short time and had just begun to get in comfortable shape. Many need medical assistance.

Geo. McDonald, of Minden, Sanilac county, tells a harrowing tale. Over two hundred families of that section are suffering from the want of food and clothing. Jno Ballentine, of Verona Mills, says that fifty-three lives are known to be lost.

Capital Question.

Pursuant to the call published yesterday there was a meeting of the citizens of El Paso county at the Court House last evening to consider the capital question. Sheriff Smith called the meeting to order. G. W. Steele was elected chairman, and Irving Howbert secretary. The call of the Cañon City committee was read and earnestly discussed. The unanimous feeling in the meeting was against sending any representatives to Cañon City. Resolutions proposed by Judge McFerran, Dr. Strickler and Chauncy Sweet were referred to a committee of seven with instructions to report this (Friday) evening. The committee consisted of Messrs. L. E. Sherman, J. H. B. McFerran, Irving Howbert, A. Sagendorf, I. Bentley, A. H. Cormon and E. T. Ensign. The meeting then adjourned to meet this evening at the Court House.

FRISCO'S ELECTIONS.

A Clear Republican Sweep Reported.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 8.—The count of the city election is not yet completed, and in the case of some candidates is not yet decided. It is certain, however, that the republicans have made nearly a clean sweep. The possible exceptions are the tax collector and one member of the board of supervisors. The republican mayor, auditor and sheriff will have in the neighborhood of 3,000 majority, in the case of the other officers the majorities will range from about the above figures down to a close margin.

Fire in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, September 8. Mulmphy planing mill was burned to-day. Loss, $50,000; insurance, $30,000.

Extreme Heat Fatal.

NEW YORK, September 8.—Dispatches from all points note to-day as the hottest nearly of the present season and of many previous seasons. Forty-three prostrations are reported by heat and several are fatal.

Remember the meeting this evening.

Colorado Springs is in the field and will remain there until after the election.

San Francisco is again republican. It is to be hoped that we have had the last of Kallocks and Kearney.

A correspondent of the Huerfano Herald gives some excellent arguments in favor of Colorado Springs for the capital.

The Denver papers have about given up the capital fight. The last meeting of citizens did not draw out a corporal's guard, notwithstanding the frantic appeals of the press.

Complaint is made justly by our readers that we do not publish the stock reports regularly. We are paying a large sum extra for these reports to the Western Union company, but cannot get the report regularly. This is all we can say as we are powerless to do more than make our complaints.

[illegible] Though published in what has been an inaccessible part of the state for a great part of the year, the paper has achieved a high reputation all through the state. It has had opinions and expressed them boldly and fearlessly. It has also been useful to its section in the exposure of wild cat mining companies.

The meeting on the capital question last night showed there was a deep interest felt by our people in the coming canvass. Great enthusiasm was manifested and the people are ready for an aggressive campaign. Confidence was felt in the justice of our claims. The meeting adjourned until tonight to listen to the report of a committee regarding the conduct of the campaign. Those who were not present last night should attend the meeting this evening. It is of the utmost importance that we begin our campaign aright, and with the hearty sympathy of our whole population.

Beyond anxiety for the recovery of the president there is not much to interest the people. Politically we are asleep in this country and in Europe. It is something unusual for us not to have some foreign policy to study, but to-day there is not even an exciting election to break the dull monotony of European affairs. The sultan, the ameer, the czar and the emperors, presidents, kings and Victoria are off at summer watering places, and the last item of news concerning the land bill has been duly telegraphed and is now forgotten. To-day there is peace, quiet and rest. It is a time when party strife is dead, and when one and all are giving themselves up to enjoyment.

The popular feeling at the meeting last night against sending delegates to the Cañon City convention was not because Colorado Springs is unwilling to submit her claims to a convention of southern Colorado, but because there is no present assurance that the convention will be representative of the southern part of the state. Pueblo Wednesday night could not agree to send delegates though the meeting was called for that purpose and probably will not at the adjourned meeting to be held on Monday night, the day before the convention. Under the circumstances the convention at Cañon City will hardly be representative of the sentiment in southern Colorado.

The negotiations between France and England for a renewal of a treaty of commerce will very likely fail. France declares that it is not possible to extend the operation of the existing treaty beyond the 8th of November unless the British government will promise to agree to the French terms. England refuses to do this, and meanwhile the trade between the two countries is suffering and transactions are confined within the narrowest limits. It is not likely either that England will entertain the French proposals regarding a new treaty for the French exports to England are over one-fourth of her total exports, while British imports into France are only half this amount. England does not fear that France will be too stubborn under these circumstances and allow other countries to step in and take her place in the British markets.

COMING ISSUE.

From present appearances the tariff question is likely to become one of great importance in the near future. The Iron and Steel association of Pennsylvania and the Tariff Reform association of New York are both flooding the country with tracts and documents. The Iron and Steel association also is preparing for this contest by proposing a convention of manufacturers who shall consider the advisability of modifying the tariff laws. It is evident that they fear to keep up some of the duties as high as they now are. Take the single item of steel rails. The duty is now $28 a ton. We also have the advantage of $5 a ton in freight across the Atlantic. Thus an English manufacturer is compelled to make steel rails $33 a ton cheaper than our manufacturers in order to sell them in this country. As we used over 1,000,000 tons of steel rails it is a bounty paid, a subsidy to our steel rail manufacturers of $33,000,000. This immense sum is added to the operating expenses and cost of construction of the railroads in this country. It is a serious question, whether the presence of such an industry is worth this immense tax. Our own steel works start in competition with the other companies in the east with no protection, save what the difference in freight gives. The eastern well established manufacturers should certainly come nearer competing with the English manufacturers. This convention is likely to urge the reduction of the duty on steel rails and other articles so that there may be as little cause for complaint as possible.

If this is done, it will show great wisdom. Few free traders ask for more than a revision of the present tariff laws. They don't ask for a free trade tariff immediately. They do not wish to injure or crush any strong or well established industry. But they do not wish a tariff that shall enable a manufactory to live which is not conducted on business principles. If the protectionists make a liberal reduction in the tariff, they will take away all the arguments which the free traders will use before the people and have another lease of life. If they do not, the free traders will certainly have a strong case to present to the people. The people won't care much for the theories, but will care if they are being robbed.

Denver Tribune.

Gradually but surely, under the able tutorage of the Tribune, Denver is becoming cultured. Nobody wears his trousers in his boots now.

Why for Colorado Springs.

Huerfano Herald.

EDITOR HERALD:—If personal interests are to wholly control the action of the people, Denver and the other northern mountain towns have and will keep their advantage over Pueblo and the southern portion of the state. You might carry your argument one step further and make it stronger by going for La Veta. Perhaps you will answer, as there is no show for La Veta let us have the next best place we can get by working for Pueblo. And that is just my reason for working for Colorado Springs from the start. As that city has no aspirations as a metropolis it is not a rival of either Denver or Pueblo and cannot provoke the bitter antagonism of either in the contest that is or will be between them. The rivalry of Pueblo with South Pueblo will be a weakness, either of them preferring to see it go to the Springs rather than have the other get it, if I am correctly informed.

Your third argument touches the vital point and on that rests the issue before the people. I greatly mistake the intelligence and discernment of the people of the state if they do not, in opposition to the local interests of the metropolis of the north and the no less local interests of the metropolis of the south, insist that the capital shall be in the most central and healthy city in the state, so that the state officers can remain at their post of duty, and there will be no occasion for "the wives and families of state officers to seek a summer residence in this county" or continue to "recharge the mountain lodges surrounding Denver." As a state question local, city and county interests ought not to prevail if the state has paramount interests. Answering your first proposition last, I am "first" for any city that can beat Denver, "last" for the city that a southern convention shall unite upon, and "all the time" for Colorado Springs. Yours truly,

UTE PASS.

Investigate First.

Denver News.

Had the humane society investigated first and talked afterward perhaps the reform school at Golden would be less entitled to complain of bad treatment. If it shall be developed, however, that the school is conducted on the theory of brute force, the News will join the society in demanding a change, thorough and complete. Good results cannot be expected from a system of training that is radically wrong, and which has been proved to be wrong by bitter experience. The boys enrolled at the industrial institution are not criminals per se but merely the victims of neglect or bad homes, and the state of Colorado, as their present guardian, will prove false to its assumed obligations if it forgets this fact, which lies at the bottom of this scheme of good work.

A Reminiscence of Trelawny.

"I had always been anxious," a correspondent writes to the Pall Mall Gazette, "to see before he died the stout old sea-rover who had been the companion of Shelley and Byron sixty years ago. Toward the end of last February I was taken, by one of his old and esteemed acquaintance, to call upon him in the house which he had long inhabited in the village of Sunting, near Worthing. The house in question is a large cottage, painted red, and set back a little way on the left-hand side of the road, not far from the entrance to the village. Mr. Trelawny received us in a small, old-fashioned room on the ground floor, where he sat in an arm-chair, with a couple of black-and-tan terriers playing at his feet. I had heard much of the extraordinary vigor of the old man. Although past eighty-eight, and a water drinker, and although he had still inside him one of the two bullets which had been lodged there by an assassin during the Greek war of liberation, he was, nevertheless, it was said, so strong that he had only lately given up the habit of bathing in the sea in all seasons, and of warming himself on the coldest mornings, not at the fire, which he refused to have lighted before noon, but by the exercise of chopping wood. I was therefore somewhat surprised to perceive in him at first sight all the appearances of decrepitude. He scarcely moved himself in his chair on our entrance, but sat in a shrunken attitude, with his hands on his knees, speaking little, and as if he could only fix his attention by an effort. He wore an embroidered red cap, of the unbecoming shape in use in Byron's day, with a stiff projecting peak. His head thus appeared to no advantage; nevertheless, in the ashen color of the face, the rough gray hair and beard, the hard, clear, aquiline profile, and the strong, masterful, scowling gray eye, there were traces of something both more distinguished and more formidable than is seen in Mr. Millais's likeness of him in the 'Northwest Passage'—a likeness with which he himself was much dissatisfied.

"The talk ran at first on commonplace matters, in the course of which the downright old man denounced as 'lies' the ordinary formulas of social politeness and solicitude. His voice was at first somewhat weak and muffled; at the same time his scorn of conventions seemed to declare itself in a certain bluntness and bluffness of utterance, and in tricks of pronunciation such as the sounding of 'put' like 'shut.' By and by he began to rouse himself, and then his conversation became, at least at intervals, curiously impressive. His moral and social recklessness, his defiance of current opinions, his turbulent energy, his sure eye for character and his no less sure instinct for literature, all made themselves felt, along with the extraordinary interest of his experiences. From time to time the old man would rise almost bolt up in his chair, with his eyes fastened on yours like a vice, and in tones of incredible vigor would pour what he had to say into your face. I never heard from human lungs a voice so energetic as that which burst from the old man in these explosions, explosions which subsided quickly, and in the intervals of which his accents were quiet and muffled as before. * * * Passing to the circumstances of Shelley's death in 1822, Mr. Trelawny, after showing us where he had burned his hand in plucking the poet's heart out of the ashes, detailed at length his reasons for believing that the capsizing of Shelley's boat was due to foul play. He dwelt particularly on the circumstance that he was himself prevented from putting out after his friend by warnings on the subject of the quarantine he would have to undergo at the end of his trip, which were addressed to him from the pier by men affecting to be custom house officers, but who turned out not to be custom house officers at all. From Shelley [illegible] from [illegible], I forget which, our talk wandered to Savage Landor, with whom Trelawny had been brought into contact at Florence. "A remarkable man—a remarkable man!" he said several times, but would not be drawn into further comment, except concerning the mistake Landor made in admiring Southey. General remarks on poetry ensuing, Trelawny declared his great admiration for William Blake and proceeded to recite, standing, with the full force of his tremendous voice, some lines of that writer. By this time we had sat with our host a long while, and I could see by the impatient demeanor of the two terriers that we had outstayed the hour at which they expected their master to take them out walking. When we arose to go he came upstairs as into the hall. My friend on shaking hands congratulated him on looking so very well considering his age, and then turned to put on his coat; whereupon I could hear the old man, standing behind him, and [illegible] doubt of his own fast declining health, growl to himself 'S' very well, S' very well that's the kind of lies I was talking of; lies, lies.' His last words to us were nevertheless kindly, and I shall never forget the image of this old, hard, keen-faced, blunt-spoken, strong-voiced survivor of the age of heroes as he stood growling, but not unkindly, on his door-step."

Walter Savage Landor's Temper.

He had a tremendous quarrel with a neighbor about a water course, and after a duel had been averted, a suit at law was begun which lasted for years, being tried and retried in all the courts of Tuscany. This probably suggested to Dickens the incident of Boythorn's great dispute with Sir Leicester Dedlock about a footpath. We all remember how Mr. Boythorn softly caresses his canary with his forefinger, at the same time as he thunders out defiance and revenge against Sir Leicester Dedlock: "He brings actions for trespass; I bring actions for trespass. He brings actions for assault and battery; I defend them and continue to assault and battery. Ha! ha! ha!" Landor's great pet in those days was not really a canary, but a yellow Pomeranian dog, all vivacity, affection and noise; and it is a fact that the dog Pomero, like the canary of the novel, used to station himself on his master's head. Landor's love of animals was paralleled by his love of trees and flowers. A story current in Fiesole represented him as having once thrown his cook out of the window, and instantly afterward thrust out his head, with the exclamation: "Good God, I forgot the violets!"

Fortunes and the Pulpit.

Dean Stanley's will has been sworn under $150,000 personalty, a sum which will probably strike clergymen in this country as very large for a divine to leave behind him. Fortunes such as this were in former days frequently acquired in the church. There are to-day families well known in England whose rise dates from an ancestor's connection with a cathedral chapter such as that of Durham and Ely, which not only gave a handsome income to its members, but placed in their hands splendid patronage, which they could and generally, to do them justice, did bestow on their relatives. In Ireland the case was far worse. Lord Normanton (so created) squeezed out of the archbishopric of Cashel, while his cathedral lay in ruins, about $3,000,000, and the numerous similar cases could be cited of that eagle eye for the main chance evinced by these holy men. Dean Stanley's money has no such taint about it. He never knew what want of money was, and what he left came from private sources. But the possession of such wealth is in itself a strong indication of the prestige of the Established Church in England. It is thought nothing unusual there for a man of means to enter it. Hundreds of clergymen, in fact, give to it thrice and more what they get from it. It is not uncommon to find a man with $10,000 a year of his own working a parish from which he derives barely $1,500. In this country, on the other hand, the clerical profession is rarely selected by a man of means. In fact, even in such a city as this, $100,000 would be deemed a large sum for a clergyman to leave behind him, and whereas in England rectories and vicarages may almost be regarded as centres of hospitality, and the claret and sherry decanters pass round as merrily at the board of a prelate or a well-to-do parish priest as in that of any wealthy layman, here, on the other hand, such doings would be so unusual as scarcely to be regarded as orthodox. This state of things in England is really due more to the union of church with state than to anything else. Men of Dean Stanley's stamp and fortune do not enter the "dissenting" pulpit. It is the prestige of the state church which really attracts and holds them, and with its abolition there will come a marked change in the social standing and wealth of the clergy.

THE ARIZONA DISTURBANCES

Dispatches from Various Officers—Matters Not as Bad as at First Reported

SAN FRANCISCO, September 8.—The following dispatch was received at the military headquarters of this city. The following dispatches were received from Arizona last night. Gen. Wilcox telegraphs that there are all sorts of rumors but his present belief is that the hostiles are all south of the Gila river and mostly on the White Mountains or Mogollon country. Lieutenant Haskell reports that he has got a return courier from Gen. Carr. Overton's command went in at night without meeting Stanton. Carr says Cooley went out the night of the third in hope of bringing in a part of Pedro's own band. Cruse's first sergeant Mases and Alcasha a White Mountain chief, have gone out to talk with Pedro. They have not much faith in Pedro or his band. Carr has now three additional companies with him. Capt McClellan reports from old Fort Grant that he is not able to get across the Gila. It is not fordable. Price's command moved out of Fonto Basin on the morning of the 6th. Captain Vivian telegraphed from Camp Thomas that an Indian courier is in from Apache via the sub agency. The commands of Overton, Perrine, Craig and Clark's company of Indians arrived there at 3:30 p. m. on the 4th after a forced march. Matters are not as bad as at first reported

At least sixteen inches of rain fell in less than two weeks and the damage to buildings and goods in Guaymas alone will exceed $50,000. A heavy frost occurred at Manitou on Wednesday and Thursday nights, doing some considerable damage. In this city the frost was very light and no damage is reported.

Only one criminal case under the city ordinances since the 22d of July and that a drunk and disorderly. The daily police round-ups do not afford much information for newspaper men.

Those desirous of visiting the Gunnison country should not forget that to-morrow at 10.50 a. m. the excursion train will pass through this city. Fare for the round trip only eleven dollars.

Considerable petty thieving is now going on in Colorado Springs and hardly a day passes that we do not hear of some case being reported to the officers. It is evident that some person or persons are systematically working the city. Last Wednesday night Mr. F. B. Hill, who resides on North Nevada avenue, retired leaving his purse containing over $80 on the table in his bed room. In the morning it was gone and Mr. Hill is confident that it was taken by some sneak thief who entered the window which was open.

SPECIAL.

A first-class corner lot on best part of North Weber street, finely improved, with lawn, trees and small fruits, on which is built two houses, one of 6 rooms and the other of 8 rooms, in first-class order, with splendid cellars and furnished with city water. These houses will always rent at good figures. I offer this desirable investment for a short time.

Twenty-six first-class lots, much larger than the ordinary town lot, located on East Pike's Peak avenue and Kiowa street, on the beautiful slope west of the Deaf Mute Institute. These lots are all fenced and have been planted in trees. They command a superb view of the mountains, and they can be sold cheaper than any other lots so near the business centre of the city. A fine chance for investment or to secure a lovely home.

I have a centrally located corner residence property, 100x190 feet, house of six rooms, city water, barn, etc., price $2,500, which I will trade for a $4,000 or $5,000 residence property up town, and pay the difference in cash.

A splendid tract of 13½ acres just north of town; 10 acres under ditch and in garden, rhubarb, strawberries, asparagus, currants, gooseberries, grape vines and fruit trees; good well of water only 10 feet deep; plastered house of four rooms, stable for three horses. The entire tract is enclosed with a good fence and is the most desirable garden tract near the city, besides being so close thereto that it will very soon be available to cut up into building lots. I can sell this property at a figure which makes it the best bargain I have on my books.

House of 1 room, also small stable, on lot 75x190 on North Corona street. Only $500.
